The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-2, 4-5, 7, 12, 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Stearns et al.

Stearns et al show a rotary valve with an annular chamber 44 for applying a fluid pressure for pressing the rotor against the stator. Recitations in the claims of a means without recitation of a 'for' clause are interpreted as not invoking §112, sixth paragraph.

Claims 1-2, 4, 6, 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Acker.

Acker shows a rotary valve in a bottling application with pressure in chamber 69 pressing the rotor to the stator, and with fluid line 93 in the shaft for supplying inert gas.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 11, 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Stearns et al in view of Byers et al.

Stearns et al show the claimed valve except for a rack and pinion actuator, which Byers et al show for actuating a rotary valve. It would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have used such a rack and pinion actuator in the valve of Stearns et al to desirably rotate the shaft. The use of air to pressurize the valve of Stearns et al is considered an obvious matter of design choice in view of the well known nature of air actuated pistons.

Claims 3, and 8-10 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
